Sociologist Claims Nazis Restrict Life Of German Student

Scott Nearing Addressed League Against War Yesterday

NUMBER DECREASED

Intellectually Active Students Lay Seeds of Revolution

Dividing present day German students into two categories, each dependent upon political creed and differing greatly in every aspect, Scott Nearing, noted American sociologist, addressed the McGill League Against War and the Suppression of Civil Liberties in Strathcona Hall yesterday afternoon. "In order to understand this situation," said Mr. Nearing, "it is necessary to realize Germany's condition of economic crisis and collapse. This is not the result of the war or of Hitler's regime, though he is part of it, but of the decay of the imperialist order."

Council Meets

THE Council of the McGill League Against War and the Suppression of Civil Liberties will meet tomorrow at four o'clock in Strathcona Hall. This meeting, which is for the purpose of electing a permanent executive, has been postponed so that those organizations which have been invited to send delegates to the council may do so. Members of any society which has decided to give moral support to the League are invited to vote for the executive. Honorary members of the executive will also be elected. The study groups will be announced at this meeting and those present may signify which of these they wish to join. One group will discuss student life in Fascist countries.

This economic situation, with its decreased demand for trained technicians of any sort, has considerably diminished the German student body. The number of men students has decreased over the past few years and of women students still more. Of these, very few come from among the working classes and practically none from the Jewish and other non-German races.

Mostly Nazis

Of the existing students eighty per cent are members of the Nazi party, subject to its restrictions and with no intellectual futures except in small and very specialized fields. Nazi discipline includes the suppression of books by Marx, Lenin and similar revolutionary writers and limits extensively the number of things to be studied. The energy of Nazi students hence directs itself usually to beer-drinking, duelling, and other extracurricular pursuits.

The remaining twenty per cent, intellectually curious, are forced to join underground organizations to obtain banned books, and usually affiliate themselves with the subterranean revolutionary movement. Herein, said Mr. Nearing, may be seen a parallel to conditions in Russia in 1890 and he concluded with the prophecy that among these non-Nazi students will be

Life At University Subject Of Debate

Junior Debating League Plans Mock Parliament Next Month

The McGill Junior Debating League will meet next Monday afternoon at 4.00 p.m. in the Music Room of the Union, presenting its second regular debate of the season. The subject deals with university life, and the aptitude of the student to enter the business world after graduation. The participants, have not as yet been named. The Debating League has planned a Mock Parliament for the first week in January, or perhaps at the close of the holidays. In this Parliament, there will be representatives not only of the male undergraduates but also of the female students at McGill. Girls from R.V.C. will uphold the government resolution against the male undergraduates of the League.

On the 20th of this month the League encounters the Spoke Club, winners of the Beatty Trophy last year. The McGill debaters taking part in this engagement are Sydney Friedman and Morton Godline, respective winners of the Bovey Shield Contest in the past two years. Each club has lost a debate this season, the debating competition consisting of three debates, each of five minutes.

Players' Club Holds Dress Rehearsal Of Shaw Satire

Artsmen To Forsake Books For Dancing

THE Arts Undergraduate Society are holding an informal dance on the 21st of this month. The Harvard-McGill hockey game occurs on this date and the members of both teams have been invited to attend. Besides the privilege of meeting the teams personally, students will be able to speak to Santa Claus, it is hoped, among other important personages present.

Two years ago a similar dance was held and was well attended. Last year another of this type was attempted but was postponed because of the death of Sir Arthur Currie. This year, however, the custom is to be renewed and the sale of tickets is being limited to Arts students. These go on sale today and may be obtained from class representatives and members of the executive at the price of $1.00.

Preparations Made For Informal Dance

Scheduled To Take Place After Intercollegiate

YALE TEAM VISITORS

Music Will Be Provided by Howard Simpson's Privateer Orchestra

Plans for an informal dance to be held after the Yale-McGill exhibition hockey match on Friday evening, December 14th, are now being completed by the Union House Committee. The affair will take place in the Union ballroom, which will be decorated in the traditional spirit of the Yuletide. Those present will dance from 11 to 2 a.m. to the snappy strains of Howard Simpson's Privateers, who also provided the jazz element at the Union Prom. Mrs. W. Vaughan of R.V.C. will be present in the capacity of patroness.

Both Teams Present

Both of the teams participating in the game have been invited, and so the dance will provide an opportunity for meeting the members of the American team. As the hockey match is one which always receives a great deal of support from the student body as well as others, it is hoped that the dance will be equally successful.

The admission for dancing is one dollar per couple. Tickets may be obtained from the Union Tuck Shop, the Arts Building, or the Engineering Building. The admission ticket does not include refreshments, but those who would like supper, may have it served them by ordering and paying for it just before the supper hour.

Glee Club Meets

Learn Border Ballad and Rehearse Old Songs

The weekly meeting of the Glee Club was held last night under the direction of Mr. Morris in the ballroom of the McGill Union. The club rehearsed as the main selection of the evening a song which was new to them, "The Border Ballad," by Sir Walter Scott. In addition to this several old numbers were reviewed.

The Club still has several vacancies and all those interested are invited to

Chess Champions Choose Chill Cheerless Chamber

The culture inherent in all institutions of learning came to the fore in no uncertain manner last night in the offices of McGill Daily. The sanctum and the two little sanctum sanctorum were models of beehive activity, with each and every young lad and lassie doing his or her bit to make this issue the best ever. Into this scene of idyllic endeavour entered two young men of honest, frank countenance and deep, dastardly purpose. Between them they bore a square board, which they carried with a tenderness and regard for the laws of the American Express Company far greater than it deserved.

The editor in charge of today's issue looked up mildly. "And to what do we owe the joy of this visit?" asked he. The larger of the intruders furtively wiped his eyes with a cambric handkerchief before answering. His voice sounded like that of Lazarus as he sobbed, "This is the only place we could think of where we might play in peace. Please, oh, please let us stay."

First Production Scheduled For Moyse Hall Tomorrow Night

Tickets Now on Sale in Box Office at Union

WITH the production of the "Devil's Disciple" scheduled to start tomorrow, the McGill Players' Club held its first dress rehearsal of the satire by Bernard Shaw last night. This play will be the thirteenth major production of the club to be held in Moyse Hall. It is one of Shaw's earlier works, being first published at the beginning of the century.

When interviewed after the rehearsal, Howard Stikeman, president of the Players' Club, stated that "I am entirely satisfied with the results. Each member of the cast came up to expectations, and the stage crew functioned well. If they repeat this performance at today's rehearsal and Thursday night, I am sure that the play will be a success, even though the "Devil's Disciple" is both dramatically and technically a difficult work to produce."

Describes Dudgeon's Adventures

The play, which takes place at the time of the American Revolution, describes the adventures of Richard Dudgeon, a man who believes in the Devil rather than God, and whose escapades bring him to the foot of the gallows before he is rescued by the victory of the Colonial troops over the British. This part is played by Gordon Bourne, with Peggy Atkinson in the role of the beautiful wife of the fighting parson.

The cast is a large one, being composed of 65, while another 75 are indirectly concerned in the production. The director is Filmore Sadler, while Max Roth is in charge of scenery design. Other actors are Catherine Dickenson as Mrs. Dudgeon; John Jacobson as Christy Dudgeon; James Moore, Minister Anderson; Robert Wakefield, General Burgoyne; Colin Cam, Major Swinton.

Tickets are now on sale at the box office in the Union, which is open during the rest of the week from nine a.m. to six p.m. They are 50 cents each to students and 75 cents for others.

Labourites To Hear Prominent Speaker

Professor King Gordon Will Address Club

A lecture on "The Student and the Social Order" will be given by Professor King-Gordon before the Labour Club meeting in Strathcona Hall on Friday, December 14th at 8.15 p.m. Professor King-Gordon, former Professor of Ethics at the United Theological College, is the son of the well-known Canadian author who uses the pen-name of "Ralph Connor. He is himself best known in Montreal for his interest in social reform.

During the meeting, a new president will be elected, as was announced at the last meeting. The policy of the Students' League of Canada, an organization with interests somewhat similar to those of the Labour Club, will be discussed, and also the advisability of closer affiliation with it. Programs containing the policy of the Students' League will be distributed to those present.

Attend the next meeting which will be held this coming Tuesday in the ballroom. First tenors and second basses are especially invited to attend.

Souvenir Snaps Showing Student Stunts Solicited

Prizes Offered For Five Best Photographs

Following the precedent established in former years, this year's Annual board is sponsoring a photographic contest for the purpose of gathering together material with which to make up the Campus Life section of "Old McGill" 1935. Five prizes are being offered to induce students to submit offerings in this contest which will continue until January 31st.

These consist of a $5 first prize and four other prizes, the winners of which will each be given a copy of "Old McGill" 1935, valued at $4. The Annual Board has asked that it be made clear that entrants can submit either prints or negatives. The purpose of this is to allow the return of all negatives to their owners at the close of the contest and in this way, too, the expense of printing is borne by the Annual board rather than by the individual entrant.

This year's Campus Life section, if present plans materialize, will be twice the size of former years. For this reason a great many more prints than usual will be used and the present annual board feels that this in itself will add to the general appeal of "Old McGill." The tendency in the past has been to make the Annual a souvenir for members of the graduating classes.

The 1935 "Old McGill" will not only be this, but will have the further value of appealing to all students at the University. To quote the Editor, "The 1935 edition of 'Old McGill' will be the McGill Year Book in every sense of the word."

The photographs submitted, it is announced, may be of any type whatsoever, the aim being to gather together as representative a group of pictures for the section as possible. In the past humorous photos of student life have carried a greater appeal than any other but this does not preclude the possibility that this year it may happen that other types may carry off several of the prizes.

The aim of this year's board, it is stated, is to give equal prominence to every phase of Campus activity. As a result as many diversified photos as possible will be singled out.

It is rumored that the Date Bureau has approached the Annual board with the plan of publishing a number of photographs that it may submit — what the nature of these would be has not been disclosed but from all accounts they would have a certain amount of appeal to a great number of students at McGill.

Society Hears Talk On Electron Tubes

D. L. Dawes Will Address Electrical Section

A special meeting of the electrical section of the Engineering Institute of Canada will be held tomorrow at 8.15 p.m. at 2050 Mansfield St. Mr. D. L. West will speak on Electron Tubes in Industry.

Mr. West was formerly with the Baird Television Co. in London, England and in New York and the Canadian Television Co. Ltd. of Montreal. Recently he has become interested in the application of electron tubes in industrial work. One of the most popular applications is the Electric Eye.

A special feature of this meeting will be the opportunity for discussion and for questions.

Internationalism Celebrated At Rotarian Club Luncheon

Thirty-Six McGill Students Guests of Society

Dean A. L. Walsh Welcomes Representatives of Diferent Countries

WITH thirty-six students each representing his own country as guests, the Montreal Rotary Club celebrated International Day at a luncheon yesterday in the Windsor Hotel. The program which was designed to emphasize internationalism throughout was a colorful one, each student having before him the flag of the country he represented and during the course of the proceedings, which were broadcast, each went before the microphone and announced his name and the name of his country to the unseen audience.

The principal address on the subject "Is Rotary An International Force" was delivered by Past Governor W. R. Allen. "Rotary is the first organization to ring the world, without any special creed or faith," said the speaker, "but with one ideal—that of broader acquaintance, that out of it may result good fellowship and as a result finer and better understanding." Rotary would like to eliminate all international misunderstandings and replace them with world-wide friendship. "Understanding is spiritual, not bargaining."

"Rotary Rings the World"

"This ideal has ringed the world and has caught the fascination of all peoples, all creeds, all colours, being represented in China, Japan, India, Africa, South America, Australia, practically every country in Europe, and in fact everywhere, for membership in Rotary is an experiment in friendship and this appeals to everyone," continued Mr. Allen.

The speaker mentioned how in his travels he had made friends with many people in other countries and how the good opinion he formed of them always made him think what a wonderful country theirs must be, and what wonderful citizens it must have. Thus we may form our whole impression of a country from meeting one of its citizens, and if he is a fine fellow will think his country must be too, so one of the finest methods of eliminating international misunderstanding is the Rotary ideal of international friendship, and in a cosmopolitan university like McGill or Cornell, which he mentioned, much can be done to foster this ideal.

Phil Edwards Speaks

In proposing the vote of thanks Phil Edwards of McGill pointed out what a good influence the Olympic games have towards attaining this ideal, for there the athletes of all countries of the world meet on the common basis of friendly athletic rivalry.

The meeting was opened by the singing of "O Canada" following which Rotarian Paul Borup, Chairman of the International Service Committee took the chair, and visiting Rotarians were introduced and welcomed. The President, Dr. Arthur L. Walsh then welcomed the students, saying:

"It is my pleasant duty and privilege to welcome to our meeting today thirty-six students of McGill University and Université de Montreal, representing thirty-six different countries of the world. Rotary is an international organization and this meeting today would serve to emphasize its international character. It is very fitting, therefore, that so many countries should be represented at this gathering and that the Rotary Club of Montreal should have an opportunity, through these young men and women, to spread the gospel of International peace and goodwill."

Potential Leaders

I would remind these young college students that, as potential leaders of tomorrow, they must appreciate their present responsibilities toward that leadership. Develop yourselves into men and women whose backbone is perpendicular to the earth's surface—develop your life into one of dynamic force, and develop so that when you cease to be college students you will continue to grow. In that way you will, each in your several countries, play a leading part, guiding the destinies and dictating the policies, both domestic and foreign, of that country and thus leading your own people and the world at large into a larger state of happiness."

It is my hope that you will each catch the full significance of a meeting such as this, and that inspiration received here will give you strength and courage for the future. Your presence today is for the Rotary Club of Montreal a good omen for the future, an inspiration for more potent service locally and an optimistic anticipation of better international relationship in the future. As unofficial ambassadors from your respective countries, I in-

Officers Elected By Scarlet Key Group At Dinner

McGILL'S Scarlet Key Society held its Fifth Annual Dinner in the Grill Room of the Union last night.

The election of officers resulting in the choice of Charles Turner as president was the main feature of the meeting and plans for the coming year were discussed. The new officers are: Charles N. Turner, President; James R. Nixon, Vice-President; C. Harrington, Treasurer; and George Hornig, Secretary. The retiring president of the Society is H. E. McHugh. Group "A" of the incoming members consists of L. Place, F. Nobbs, J. Kennedy, E. Jones, T. Sample, K. Brundage, J. Law, G. Ogilvie, J. Conroy, C. Letourneau, D. Amaron, G. Gould, E. Piper, D. Cooper, J. McCannell, G. Walsh, M. Mahoney. The "B" group consists of: C. Gilmore, K. Thomson, A. Bourne, J. Mills, R. Sproule, W. Horwood, D. Tennant, H. Rokans, J. Wright, H. Stovel, A. Pick, R. McMoran, T. Morse, L. Garrow.

Don Small, President of the Union, Major Forbes, Instructor of Athletics at McGill, and Lorne Gales, President of the Students' Council spoke at the banquet, all expressing their appreciation for the work done by the Scarlet Key Society.

Plumbers To Dine At Annual Affair On Saturday Night

Chancellor E. W. Beatty and Dean Brown to Speak

AN ANNOUNCEMENT that Professor McKergow, head of the department of mechanical engineering, who was scheduled to speak at the Engineering Undergraduate Banquet in the Queen's Hotel Saturday night will be unable to attend was made last night. No one has as yet been named to replace him on the toast list. Other speakers will be E. W. Beatty, Chancellor of the University, and Dean Brown of Engineering. The heads of the various departments are expected to be present.

Announcement was also made that the price of $1.00 by no means covered the actual cost of the banquet the remainder being made up from the Undergraduate Society fund. The large surplus has permitted the engagement of unusually high-class entertainment, according to Hod Stovel, head of the entertainment committee. The exact nature of the show was not released for publication but it was stated that the high standard of former years would be surpassed. While the main part of the entertainment will be of a professional character, it is possible that amateurs will also be called upon to round out the evening.

In the past, according to the executive, the Engineering Banquet has been second only to the Plumbers' Ball in popularity with the undergraduates. Tickets may be obtained from Harry Grimsdale or members of the executive.

Graduate Students Offered Fellowships

Yale University Offers Scholarships For Graduates

Many fellowships are being offered for graduate students by Yale University this year. They are offered both in Biological and Humanistic studies as well as to students of Engineering and Social Science. One fellowship will be awarded to those who have either a Ph.D. or an M.D. while there are others for graduates of different Faculties. Full particulars may be seen in the office of the Secretary of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research in the Macdonald Physics Laboratory.

McGill Graduates Meet

Matters of interest to all McGill graduates and past students will be discussed at an opening meeting of the Montreal branch of the Graduates' Society of McGill University, which will be held in the McGill Union, Sherbrooke street west, tomorrow evening at 8.15 o'clock.

Make-Up Crew

Members of the Players' Club make-up crew are asked to notice that they are to report at Moyse Hall at 6 o'clock, instead of 7 as previously announced.

Aspiring Debaters Offered Criticism At Practice Night

Reverend R. C. Burgoyne Acts as Guest Critic

HELD YESTERDAY

"World Going to Dogs" Subject Debated

The Reverend Mr. R. C. Burgoyne, past president of the Montreal Debating Union, was guest speaker at the third practice night of the McGill Debating Union, held last night in the Music Room of the Union. These practice nights are for the purpose of encouraging public speakers who have not had experience.

The speakers debated on the resolution that "The world is going to the dogs." Each speaker was prepared to discuss both sides of the topic. Alternative speakers upheld the affirmative; and negative of the question.

Altken Speaks First

The first speaker, Sidney Altken, painted a black picture of the present state of world affairs. He was followed by Allan Barnes of the negative, who declared that the modern world is marked by the superiority of its humour to that of our ancestors. The next speaker, Herbert Sanders, asserted that the world is in a hopeless condition and the modern spirit of mechanical progress merely serves to accelerate its downward progress.

Arthur S. Weaver who followed, cited the advances made in recent years in general knowledge and in transportation facilities. He asserted that the people of today enjoy far more leisure than did our forefathers.

Deplores Mechanical Spirit

John Simpson deplored the mechanical spirit of the age which has brought unhappiness into so many homes, and sharpened the unfortunate class distinctions. The gangster problem in the United States, said the speaker, is a further indication of the way the world is heading.

Geoffrey Luxton claimed that life would be dull and uninteresting without the excitement the modern world provides. Life is more pleasant, more comfortable, he claimed. Modern outdoor sports give better health, and are building up a finer race.

The final speaker, George Self, con-

Library Visited By Princess Der-Ling

Chinese Celebrity Guest of Chinese Research Library

Upon the occasion of her lectures in Montreal, Princess Der-ling, formerly Lady-in-Waiting to the late Empress Dowager Tzu-hsi, visited the Gest Chinese Research Library, on Monday morning, December tenth. She was accompanied by her hostess, Dr. Helen R. Y. Reid, and she was received by the University Librarian, Dr. Gerhart R. Lomer, and the Curator of the Gest Library, Dr. Nancy Lee Swan. Chinese tea was served, and rare books of the Manchu, or Ch'ing dynasty, A.D. 1644-1912, were shown to the guests.

The Princess was particularly interested in a handsome leather-bound, gilt-embossed year book of the Military College for Nobles at Peking (Peiping, China) for the year 1905. This book contains photographs and biographies of the teaching staff and the students well known to the Princess who left Court in 1905 upon the death of her father, Lord Yu-keng of the Manchu White Banner Corps.

With representative copies of the many Imperial editions of the Chinese works piled high around her as she sat at a desk in the Gest Library, it was difficult for the Princess to be led away for another engagement. In her own words, as she left the building, the Chinese library made her "homesick" for China.

Song Recital Tonight By Famed Contralto

TONIGHT the celebrated contralto, Sigrid Onegin, will be heard in a recital at the Imperial Theatre. The assisting artist on this occasion will be Herman Reutter, pianist, who will accompany Madam Onegin.

A programme of interest to students of musical tastes has been announced which includes a group of folk songs to be sung in the original language in which they were written. A group of four of Schubert's melodies will also be sung by Madam Onegin. Mr. Reutter will play a group of Brahms works.

Tickets may still be obtained at the Imperial Theatre.

The Economic Picture

VERY many of us as youngsters were familiar with the old garden swing—we tried to go as far and as high as we could. Eventually we landed with a grand and glorious tumble on our backs—it took us some time to conquer our fear of falling again, and to start swinging once more. In 1928 and the early part of 1929, the people of the entire civilized world were enjoying a grand swing—they reached the apex of prosperity only to hit the ground with a thud that has been heard for the past five years. Are we today beginning to set the swing once more in motion? Are we heading again towards a state of prosperity?

The leading economists of the world are definitely and confidently predicting that we stand today on the threshold of prosperity the like of which the world has never experienced before. Sir Arthur Salter, the noted British economist, who was one of the first to see and openly predict the depression long before it arrived, said in an interview the other day, that we will be enjoying a prosperity equal to that of 1928, by the end of 1936. This is indeed a bold prediction. While we can only hope that it will turn out to be so, we shall be deeply gratified if there is even a semblance of a return of world wide prosperity two years from now.

This is the time however that precautions must be taken to make those provisions necessary to prevent any collapse of a future prosperity, such as that we have and are still suffering from. Capitalism has definitely shown that it has the power to make a come-back, and it is up to those guiding its destinies, to see that it is purged insofar as possible of those defects which nearly resulted in its complete discredit.

Periodical Literature

A FREQUENTLY neglected source, particularly by newcomers to the university, but nevertheless an excellent source both of information and of enjoyable reading lies in the periodical section of the Redpath Library. Here magazines and newspapers, culled from all parts of the world, are placed at the disposal of student readers, not all of whom are aware of the opportunity thus offered.

It is impossible at a time like the present to remain abreast of current affairs and movements without frequent recourse to periodical literature. The information and ideas contained in books must necessarily be a few stages behind the times, and for this reason must be supplemented by magazines and newspapers.

Students who specialize in any branch of study will find that the library subscribes to a wide variety of government publications, scientific journals and of magazines confined to one particular subject—accordingly offering a great deal to a student of that subject. Of course, it is probably true that the views and ideas expressed by prominent authors in magazine interviews and articles are not subjected to the critical analysis and mature judgment by which their more lengthy expressions in books are tested. Nevertheless, it is significant to note that many classical contributions to the world literature have first been presented in some magazine or journal.

At the same time, it is the periodical alone which is more suited to presenting latent talent to the world. A promising young author who would seldom have the opportunity to publish a book, may yet contribute a story or article to some magazine which will present him to the world. Presenting as it does so many items of a topical or local nature, the periodical offers insight into the life and doings of other people and, insofar as it has an international appeal, may be one of the forces contributing to a better understanding.

To revert to the more pragmatic aspect of periodical literature, for reference work, particularly that requiring up-to-date material, a Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature is practically indispensable. Finally, for the student momentarily tired of poring over books, fifteen minutes or so spent in the periodical room will generally provide the necessary distraction from protracted study.

Proposed Activities

"Men are never so likely to settle a question rightly as when they discuss it freely."

Realizing the truth of Macaulay's dictum, the Executive of the Montreal Branch will ask for a discussion and criticism of the activities proposed for the year, at the Informal Meeting which will be held in the Union tomorrow evening.

- Daily to be sent once a week to all members
- Annual-Smoker, Feb. 7
- Theatre Night and Supper Dance, March 14
- Annual Dinner, May
- Annual Meeting and Social, October
- Addresses to Graduating Classes
- Smoker for Graduating Classes
- Possible Representation on the Athletic Board

Alumni Achievement

THERE is nothing extraordinary or impossible involved in proposed attempts to strengthen the McGill Graduates' organization so that it may better serve McGill. The examples of many similar alumni bodies indicate how much a graduates' society can accomplish for a university.

To a considerable degree, a college is measured by the achievements of its alumni. The records of individual McGill graduates, representing our Alma Mater throughout the world, have made positive and sound contributions to the fame of McGill. That the graduates as an organized body have accomplished all that they might in promoting the welfare of the university is, however, a matter for debate. Many are definitely of the opinion that they have not.

A consideration of some of the major achievements of alumni organizations, as summarized below, may therefore be helpful to those interested graduates who are giving this matter some consideration.

THE maintenance of an alumni list is obviously a most necessary part of any alumni organization's work. Such a list is the basis of all contacts between graduates and their Alma Mater.

CLASS organizations or local regional clubs are usually sponsored by the general body. It is as a rule true that in the old endowed colleges, the class organization is strong and often much more vital to the alumnus than is the general alumni society.

ALUMNI reunions, particularly of graduation time, are much older than any formal graduate organization; but of course with the development of alumni associations, reunions are now as a rule sponsored by them. The class is generally the reunion unit, and reunions are usually held every five years.

The Dix Plan, which provides for classes to hold reunions at irregular intervals instead of every five years, is becoming increasingly popular. The idea is to bring together classes that were in college at the same time. Over a period of 19 years each class has reunions with all the classes that were in college with it.

THE alumni magazines—weekly, monthly or quarterly—has proved probably the most effective medium of keeping alive alumni interest in the colleges. There seem to be rather more monthlies than quarterlies among alumni publications considered, while there are a few good weeklies.

TO bring the college more favourable publicity has been one of the objectives of alumni associations. Most colleges maintain some form of news distributing bureau, with the institution itself assuming the expense, the alumni officers directing.

IT is quite common to have on the athletic council or advisory board, one two or three alumni representatives. Alumni interest and support is most noticeably given to athletics (sometimes to such an extent as to arouse considerable unfavourable comment) but it also can prove valuable in cooperating with the undergraduates in the development of musical, dramatic and literary clubs.

Professional schools have found that alumni influence can be most decidedly worth while in developing the curriculum.

MANY universities maintain their own Employment Bureaus. Oxford and Cambridge, for instance, have been running theirs for years. Otherwise this duty falls upon the alumni organization. Several bureaus combine student and alumni employment. In many, the placement of seniors receives the greatest attention.

Some Canadian college bureaus are exceedingly strong, as many a McGill man has found to his disadvantage when seeking employment.

An interesting survey of the McGill Graduates Employment Bureau appears in the current issue of the News, out this week.

COLLEGE alumni funds have been devoted mainly to the erection and maintenance of college buildings, the provision of bursaries and scholarships, the endowment of professorial chairs. Magnificent work along these lines has been done by many alumni societies.

THE election from the alumni of members of the university's board of governors or trustees is a desirable duty of graduate societies. In some colleges all governors or trustees are alumni.

RELATIONS between graduates and undergraduates are often strengthened by the efforts of a graduates' society, which cooperates with the college officers in securing a desirable student body.

makes contacts with undergraduates in various ways such as receptions, smokers, luncheons, addresses, etc.

A RECENT development of some alumni organizations has been the sponsoring of further education among the alumni. Reading lists and book lists that carry considerable comment are distributed. Lecture courses or special courses for alumni have been established. Further, educational information and instruction is being given over the radio, the alumni organization in all these cases cooperating with the university faculty.

McGILL'S Society has done good work along many of the lines indicated above. But obviously it can never achieve substantial results, either in the development of efforts already begun or in new endeavours, unless it has behind it the continued interest and support of the great mass of the alumni body.

It is no part of the present plans of the Montreal Branch of the McGill Society to add to its members' disbursements in these days. In times of prosperity objectives can be easily reached if the organization is functioning effectively. The present activities are planned, it is true, with a view to having the organization strong numerically; but more desired than this is an organization with a strength based on the fact that its members are well-informed and share in all plans and decisions.

'TrueSportsmenUnderFire'

Memories of sportsmanship which will endure long after the scores of the games in which the incidents occurred have been forgotten were recalled by Dr. J. C. Maynard (probably better known to most McGill old-timers as Jack Maynard, Toronto half-back of pre-war days) in a letter to Dr. T. C. Routley which the latter read at a recent meeting of the Medico-Chirurgical Society.

"I am very happy to be able to keep alive the memory of these things," wrote Dr. Maynard, "in the hope that the present and future players will do the same."

The following excerpts are published by permission:

I. "WAS THE PASS FORWARD?"

THE first incident occurred in the Varsity-McGill game in Montreal in the fall of 1910. This was a very close game, and, as I remember it, the difference in the score at the end of the hour was only eight points. At a very crucial time that famous triumvirate of McGill wings, Matheson, Turnbull and Gilmour broke through the Varsity line on one of their famous tandem bucks. They were clear through, the whole three of them and nobody to stop them but "yours truly." I heaved myself at whoever carried the ball; he promptly passed to the other and McGill were across for a try. The referee on that occasion was Mr. Phil McKenzie of Montreal who had followed behind the play as best he could. He was doubtful of the pass, and, running quickly to Mr. Dan Gilmour, asked, "Was not that pass forward?" And my old friend Dan replied without one second's hesitation, "Certainly it was." McGill lost the try and I honestly believe that, by so doing, lost the game.

II. "DID IT GO OVER?"

THE next incident... occurred in a McGill-Varsity game in Toronto, I think in the fall of 1911. Billington, one of the McGill half-backs, from quite a distance from the Varsity goal, attempted a goal from the field. The kick went splendidly and I, in the Varsity rear field, caught the ball. It was reasonably close to the goal-post but when I saw the referee put up his hand, there was no question in my mind, nor in the mind of any player on the field, but that the ball had gone over. Mr. Billington, however, thought differently and walking straight to the referee, remarked, "Mr. Referee, I refuse to take those points; that ball did not go over."

III. "WHO TOUCHED IT LAST?"

AND the last incident occurred in a McGill-Queen's game in Kingston in the fall of 1921. At this particular game, I was an interested spectator. If Queen's won the game, Varsity won the championship. If McGill won the game, McGill was in a tie with Varsity for the championship. The game was very close and hard fought. At the very end of the game, in a scramble close to the Queen's line, the ball went into touch. The linesman was sure who had last touched the ball. Mr. Foulds, the referee, approached Captain "Boo" Anderson of the McGill team. "That ball went in off you, did it not?" "Yes, sir, it did." If that ball had been given to McGill less than four yards from the Queen's line in the dying moments of the game and they had scored a try, as I thought at the time they would have, McGill would have won that game. However, Queen's were given it and shortly afterwards the game ended.

These are three of many incidents that I could mention, but they do stand out in my mind as most excellent examples of what a true sportsman will do under fire, and if such training and example can still exist in young men I do not believe we need have much fear for their future.

Ed. Note:—It should be added that old McGill players, too, have their treasured memories of instances of true sportsmanship displayed by their opponents on intercollegiate playing fields.

Sports Survey

By Bill Sellar

THE MCGILL hockey team needs the support of all graduates in its two projected contests with Yale and Harvard on December 14th and 21st respectively. Most of us are very well pleased with the showing of the reconstructed team to date. The Redmen are fast, spirited, and well-trained. Their principal handicap at this early stage in their season is inexperience and youth. Yet anyone knows that those two "handicaps" can be converted into decided assets granted a sufficiently interested following in the grandstands. McGill will be up against very experienced squads in meeting Yale and Harvard. Yale has eleven returning lettermen from last year; Harvard has ten. Yale comes here Friday fortified in the assurance that it came closer to beating McGill than any other college team did last year. Even on the strange ice surface of the Forum, the Ellis' cleverly-conceived defensive system kept the Grutchfield-Farquharson-Farmer-McGill entourage fairly well in check for two of the three periods. In the game at New Haven, it will be remembered that McGill trailed by two-to-nothing until late in the second period and won only in the third after applying all its vaunted pressure. The games will be good this year; McGill's young team will make strenuous efforts to win. Help from the grads in the stands would make the task of the Redmen considerably lighter. Your support at these games will also facilitate the minor sport program at the university.

IT just so happens, incidentally, that a portion of the task of promoting interest in the Yale and Harvard games has fallen to the lot of yours very truly. It just so happened, do you see, that there was no one else in the Athletic Office at the time. Upon receiving the roster of the Yale and Harvard teams, one of our first thoughts was to scan the lists for names well-known in football. In 1931 as you may remember, Harvard's All-American quarter-back, Barry Wood, was the drawing card which packed the Forum, almost by itself. Since the list showed no familiar names, however, we wired a friend in the New York newspaper world. With a click of the wires came the answer that a certain hockey-playing Johnny Harvard had also played first string football for the Crimson. What, we wired back, did he do and then, as Yale was the big human interest item in football this season, we asked what he had done against the Ellis. Another series of clicks and then "Johnny Harvard, an end, two of Yale's touchdowns went over his head."

FOOTBALL is very much in the minds of the University Athletic Board at the present time. Your graduate society representatives are Dr. R. B. Bell, Gordon Glasco and Dr. Gerald Halpenney. These gentlemen would doubtless appreciate getting your views on the subject. After all, they represent you and can reflect the sentiments of the Graduates' Society only as they receive them. The problem is a big one.

THE Montreal Branch of the McGill Graduates' Society has added another athletic interest to its scope since our last communication. This is the McGill Red Shirts Swimming Club whose aims will be the fostering of interest in swimming among graduates and past students of McGill and to encourage swimming among the undergraduate body. Membership is automatic to all graduates and past students who have won letters in swimming and water polo, and to all others whose applications are accepted. The boys have not yet informed this department as to what constitutes a satisfactory application. Probably one need not be an Elk. The executive committee is composed of H. E. Herschorn, W. P. Sprenger and T. P. Howard.

Graduate Notices

The weekly Graduates' issue of the Daily will be the only medium through which announcements and notices will be made to graduates in Montreal. Watch for it each week.

INFORMAL MEETING

An Informal Meeting, open to all McGill Graduates and Past Students, whether they be members of the Society or not, will be held in the McGill Union, 690 Sherbrooke Street West, tomorrow (Thursday) evening, December 13, at 8.15.

At this meeting the Executive will ask for discussion and criticisms of the activities proposed. Suggestions will be welcomed and eventually the opinion of the meeting will be obtained as to the proposed, and perhaps amended, schedule of activities recommended by the Executive.

Sandwiches and liquid refreshment will be served.

No charge will be made.

PAST STUDENTS

Past students of McGill should note that the privileges of membership in the Graduate Society are available to them as to Graduates.

Sociologist Claims

Heated Discussion

In the discussion which followed the address Mr. Nearing noted Hitler's extraordinary ability to say the things which people want to hear said and which he himself recognizes as platitudes. Emotional appeals are made and not intellectual. Many young people join the Nazis because the narrow field which militarism offers is still greater than that offered to them under other conditions. Offenders against Nazi regulations are dealt with adequately. They usually disappear, reappearing sometimes at concentration camps, sometimes not.

Purdue Freshman Invents Electrical Replica Of Brain

Lafayette, Ind. — David W. Moore, electrical engineering freshman at Purdue university, has brought to the attention of the faculty an electrical "brain" which he designed previous to his enrollment here.

The apparatus, which is the first of its kind, as far as is known, illustrates the conditional reflex action of the brain. It consists of an incandescent bulb and two switches which are connected by an intricate electrical system. When switch number two is thrown independently the light fails to glow, while switch number one, if thrown alone, will complete the circuit causing the lamp to light. Now, if both switches are thrown and then number one is disengaged, the second, heretofore gaining no response assumes the duty of keeping the lamp lighted.

In order to see how this parallels the brain's action, let us take the example of teaching a dog to get down. Pushing the dog down corresponds to throwing the first switch which will light the bulb independently. Telling the dog to get down while the push is being given is the same as bringing both switches into play. Through association of ideas the dog has now learned what the words "get down" signify. Disengaging the first switch is the use of the command without the physical action. The dog now responds to that which it would not have responded to previous to the combined words and action. Similarly the light responds to the switch which failed to act previous to the combined setup.

Moore has been given a room in the Electrical building in which to perfect and develop his invention, which will be used for demonstration purposes in the psychology department.

Remember Dad this Christmas

It's a man's size job being the father of a family these times, and Dad has been slogging pretty hard the last twelve months.

This Christmas he'll again do his best to provide extra happiness for everyone... and he'll deny himself many things to do it handsomely. Now is the time to repay him.

He'll scold you for being foolish and spending your money on him of course... but how he'll appreciate it.

After all, he's only a boy at heart.

Andre Verrier Replies

In response to this Andre Verrier, student from France at the University of Montreal said that the nations of the world had the same ideals, the same comprehension of science, the same social needs, and that it was their duty to be good neighbours to one another. He and some others are starting a new magazine for young people in Montreal which they hope will uphold this ideal and interest those of all nations, all races, and all religions.

The Rotary thought of the week, "The Rotarian's Responsibility in Community Service" by Past President Rotarian Col. I. P. Rexford was presented and the meeting was completed by a solo "The Sailor's Grave" sung by Rotarian Merlin Davies, and a duet with his daughter, Mrs. Roy Saunders, both being accompanied at the piano by Rotarian J. E. F. Martin.

Christmas Number

The call goes out to the student body for literary contributions to the Christmas Number of the Daily, which will appear on December 21st. Poems, short stories, and articles, will be equally acceptable. The Daily hopes to create in this one issue, a seasonable atmosphere. It looks for the good old Christmas spirit amongst would-be literary lights of the University, as regards generosity and quality of out-put.

Contributions must be in by the 18th, and may be left at the Union Tuck Shop.

Intermediate Cagers Defeated By Baron Byng High School

Lose 14-12 in Close Exhibition Tilt

SCRIVER LEADS REDS

Defensive Play of Both Teams Features Game

COACH VAN WAGNER'S intermediate basketball squad played its second exhibition game of the season yesterday afternoon, losing out to a better conditioned Baron Byng squad 14 to 12. The high school squad floored a surprisingly strong quintette that completely tied up the Red snipers though the McGill five at the same time held down the flashy attacks of the opposing forwards.

Each team garnered six baskets, but free shots scored by Waxman and Rubin of the High accounted for the measure of difference. At half time Baron Byng led by the score of nine to six, and though the Red team outscored its opponents six to five in the second half, the three point lead gained in the first session was too large for the McGill five to wipe out.

No High Scorers
The scoring was evenly divided, no player getting more than four points. Katz, with two baskets led the Baron Byng scorers, while Scriver with the same score was high man for McGill. Waxman, Dikofsky, Rubin and Watkin completed the scoring for the High, while Levites, Greenblatt, Islap, and Wagner each sunk for McGill.

Tight Defense
The tight defensive play of both teams featured the game, while the forwards were decidedly off colour in the shooting. The McGill men were especially at fault in this respect, and with a little more accuracy would counted many more points.

The game served as a good workout for Coach Van Wagner's men who have not been as fortunate as their senior basketballers in the matter of playing exhibition games. The intermediate squad is entered in two leagues this winter, the intermediate intercollegiate league and the intermediate city circuit. Neither of these leagues gets underway until after the holidays, so the Reds have a month in which to continue their practices.

The Teams:
McGill: Levites 2, Greenblatt 2, Islap 2, Wagner 2, Purdy, Small, Schofield, Jeffrey, Scriver 4.
Baron Byng High: Katz 4, Waxman 3, Dikofsky 2, Rubin 3, Zinnman, Flammenbaum, Kobornick, Watkin 2, Tannenbaum.

Half time score: Baron Byng 9 — McGill 6.

Fourth Place At Stake In Senior Ice League

Canadiens and Victorias Meet in Second Game — Meiklejohn Not Expected to Play — McLernon Back For Tonight's Game — Red Team Favoured Over Blueshirts — McGill Has Faster Skating Outfit — Canadiens Can Take First Place by Defeating Victorias

FOURTH place will be at stake tonight when the McGill senior hockey team meets the revamped Lafontaine blueshirts in the first game of the midweek double bill at the Forum. The big Red team is at present in fifth place, one point behind Cecil Hart's fast stepping Verdun Maple Leafs, and two ahead of Lafontaine. A victory for Bobby Bell's squad with the four points that go with it would be a big step towards the playoff position.

Vics Play Canucks
Canadiens and Victorias meet in the nightcap this evening. The Canucks have been rolling along at record breaking clip during the past two weeks, and are now in a position to threaten the leading Ottawa sextette. This game also counts four points and if the hard fighting maroon clan fails to stop the Habitants, Ottawa will be toppled from its first place pinnacle for the first time this season.

Past records point to McGill and Canadian victories tonight. Canadiens hold a 4-3 victory over the maroon clad team, while McGill applied the whitewash brush to Lafontaine 6-0 earlier in the season. Nothing is certain in this league however as the tall end team is just as likely to overthrow the leader as not.

Meiklejohn Out
McGill will be considerably weakened tonight due to an injury to Gordie Meiklejohn captain and first string defenceman. Bobby Bell last night said that he would only dress the 'Whiz' if the injured back responded to treatment and that he would probably not play him under any circumstances. The McGill mentor considers that it would be wiser to let Meiklejohn get well rested up for the Yale game on Friday, and doesn't want to take any chances of adding to the injury which has been improving rapidly, but which is not yet completely mended.

With Meiklejohn on the side lines Hall and McKay will take over the main burden of clearing the puck from in front of the goal and bouncing the opposing forwards out of play. Fred Wigle will also have a large share of play in tonight's game, and having now completely recovered from his wrist injury of a week and a half ago, should be in first rate condition.

McLernon To Play
The forward lines will be strengthened by the return of McLernon who was on the side lines last week. Bob was missed in the games with Royals and will be welcomed back to the fold by one and all tonight. Bobby Bell will rely upon his two first string forward lines of Duff, Lamb and Crutchfield, and Crosby, Elle, and Morse, to carry most of the play tonight, but Dickinson and McLernon will alternate on both lines during the game.

Hollie McHugh in goal will be out to repeat his shut out performance of a few weeks ago, when he turned aside everything the Blueshirts had to offer. The Red team is favoured to move into fourth place tonight, as the forward lines are both faster skating than anything Lafontaine has to offer. The French squad showed a tendency to fall to back check in the first game with McGill, and this fault was mainly responsible for the large score piled in by the Redshirts. Billy Boucher the new coach of the Lafontaine team has been checking up on this weakness and the McGill squad will be faced by a tougher outfit tonight than they were three weeks ago. Tonight's game is not a home game.

SOCCER PICTURE
Would all men on the first team desiring a soccer picture please leave their order as soon as possible at 3484 University St.

GYMNASTS
All men interested in gymnastics are asked to turn out at the Montreal High gym every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock.

Ottawa Snipers Lead Scorers In Senior Ice Loop

Cholette and Finnigan Top Trio of Verdun Men

SCORING statistics released by Jimmy Foley, official scorer of the senior hockey group show clearly why the Ottawa sextette is at the top of the league. Eddie Finnigan, and Jules Cholette, two thirds of the same, and feared forward line of the Barber Poles are well out in the van as a result of their plying over the week-end.

Finnigan, the playmaker of the Ottawa trio leads his team mate Cholette by a point. In ten games Finnigan has scored nine times and has assisted in 13 other goals, giving him a point total of 22. Cholette, the leading goal getter in the Group has 15 counters to his credit, but his assist total is only six which leaves him with 21 points, one less than Finnigan.

Verdun Trio Snipers
The Verdun powerhouse of Bourcier, Brown and Ethier follows in that order. Bourcier and Brown have each 18 points; Bourcier with 10 goals and eight assists and Brown with eight goals and 10 assists. Ethier is next with fifteen points, the same as Burnie of Les Canadiens. This big six of the Senior Group has accounted for 100 scoring points in the games played to date, a remarkable total for so early in the season.

Rolly Lamb leads the McGill scorers with three goals and two assists. He is closely followed by Duff and Crutchfield, each of whom has three goals and one assist.

Pennsylvania Men Excel Academically

Philadelphia, Penn. — Eighty-five per cent of the undergraduate students at Pennsylvania university have records entirely clear of deficiencies, according to a report issued recently by the university personnel office.

The report shows an increase of more than two per cent in this respect over last year. The number of students now enrolled who had grades of A, or A and B in all courses taken last semester numbered 162 per cent of this group.

According to reporting officers, economic problems have necessitated a great number of students going into part-time employment, and home problems have also added to their worries. For these reasons, they have made studies of the standings of undergraduates, and can report from personal interviews, which show a marked improvement in study attitude and application.

McGill Weakened For Yale Contest

Hall and McKay Will Not Play Friday

ELI TEAM IMPROVED

THE annual international intercollegiate hockey exhibitions get under way Friday night when Yale's sextette seeks vengeance for many successive defeats by Bobby Bell's McGill seniors.

For the first time since 1931, McGill is in serious danger of dropping an international contest. Each year the standard of American hockey is raised to a higher level, but since the time three years ago when Harvard upset the dope cart and skated away with a 2-0 victory over the Redshirts, McGill has been able to turn aside practically every threat for hockey supremacy made by the teams across the line.

McGill Weakened
This year a decidedly weakened McGill team will be facing a powerful band of stick wielders from old Eli. The Reds are still favoured to take the game, but there are many of Yale's supporters who would be willing to argue the point.

McKay and Hall will be absent from the line-up Friday night, according to advance reports. Gordie Meiklejohn is ailing and cannot be expected to be going at top speed against the Bulldogs, even if he doesn't play tonight. Wigle will be on hand to hold up the weakened defence, and Jean Paul Elle will move back from his position on the forward line to join the body checkers. McLernon will fill in on the forward line with Crosby and Morse, taking Elle's place. These changes cannot be expected to be without effect on the coordination of the Red team; whether they will effect the play materially remains to be seen.

Yale Improved
Yale is bringing a strong band of hockey players for its Canadian tour. Last year McGill topped the Bulldogs by a score of 6 to 0 at the Forum, but ran into difficulties in New Haven and barely managed to eke out a 3 to 2 win.

After the game here this week, Yale travels to Toronto where it plays Varsity on Saturday night. The result of this game coming as it will after a test against McGill will be of more than unusual interest to McGill fans as it will show to some extent the relative abilities of Toronto and McGill.

ENGINEERING SOPHS DROP CAGE CONTEST TO SAWBONE FROSH

Rodi Leads Medicos to 21-12 Victory Over Plumbers

MEDICINE'S high scoring freshman basketball team stepped far away into the lead of the Section B division of the interclass basketball league yesterday, when it rang up its third straight victory, at the expense of the Engineering sophs, by the score of 21 to 12.

Rodi was again high man for the Medicos, garnering nine points in all. His partner Teahan who usually runs him a close second in the scoring race was the playmaker in this game and got only one basket himself. Mack, better known for his deeds on the grid-iron, but none the less effective on the basketball floor, scored his first basket of the season, and aided materially in his team's victory with lusty body checks along the line of scrimmage.

Exelrod Leads Plumbers
Exelrod led the Plumbers attack, sinking the ball for eight points in all. Gudagnl was the only other member of the Engineering team to enter the scoring records, but did so twice, with two baskets.

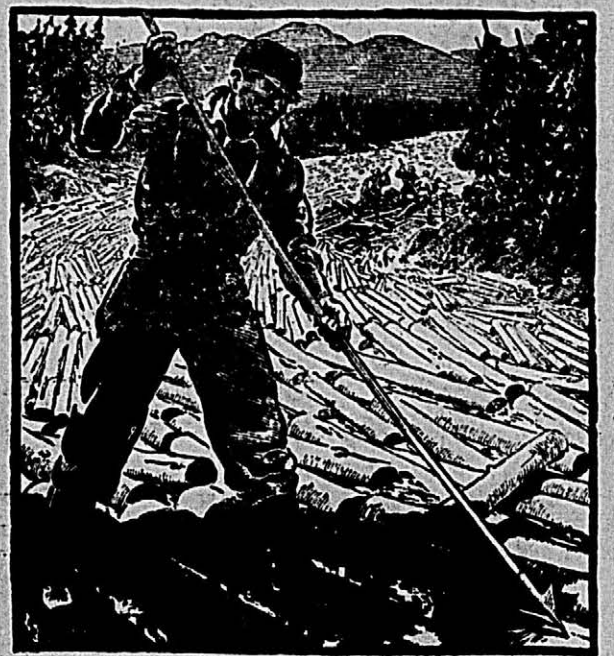

The fast breaking attacks of the Medicine team were too much for the Engineers, as time and again the Sawbones got the tip off at centre and ran in a basket on two quick passes. As in all their other games to date the Red frosh were slow in getting started and led by only 8 to 5 at half time.

Rodi High Scorer
In the second half Rodi helped himself to several fast baskets in succession, to put the game on ice for the Meds. Exelrod retaliated with two more, but Simpson and Jensen decided the issue once and for all with a basket each.

Two other games were scheduled for yesterday afternoon, but neither was played. Dentistry sophmores defaulted to their freshmen, and the Engineering I-Med 5 game was postponed until a later date.

Schedule Changed
Several changes have been made in the schedule so that games which were postponed may be played off before Christmas. The third year Dentistry team has been withdrawn from the league, due to the ineligibility of its players. This leaves section C with only three teams to fight it out for the playoff position.

Today, last year's interclass champions Arts two, will try to continue their undefeated streak of this year, at the expense of the Commerce seniors.

Intermediate Cagers Defeated By Baron Byng High School

Lose 14-12 in Close Exhibition Tilt

SCRIVER LEADS REDS

Defensive Play of Both Teams Features Game

COACH VAN WAGNER'S intermediate basketball squad played its second exhibition game of the season yesterday afternoon, losing out to a better conditioned Baron Byng squad 14 to 12. The high school squad floored a surprisingly strong quintette that completely tied up the Red snipers though the McGill five at the same time held down the flashy attacks of the opposing forwards.

Each team garnered six baskets, but free shots scored by Waxman and Rubin of the High accounted for the measure of difference. At half time Baron Byng led by the score of nine to six, and though the Red team outscored its opponents six to five in the second half, the three point lead gained in the first session was too large for the McGill five to wipe out.

No High Scorers
The scoring was evenly divided, no player getting more than four points. Katz, with two baskets led the Baron Byng scorers, while Scriver with the same score was high man for McGill. Waxman, Dikofsky, Rubin and Watkin completed the scoring for the High, while Levites, Greenblatt, Islap, and Wagner each sunk for McGill.

Tight Defense
The tight defensive play of both teams featured the game, while the forwards were decidedly off colour in the shooting. The McGill men were especially at fault in this respect, and with a little more accuracy would counted many more points.

The game served as a good workout for Coach Van Wagner's men who have not been as fortunate as their senior basketball team in the matter of playing exhibition games. The intermediate squad is entered in two leagues this winter, the intermediate intercollegiate league and the intermediate city circuit. Neither of these leagues gets underway until after the holidays, so the Reds have a month in which to continue their practices.

The teams:
McGill: Levites 2, Greenblatt 2, Islap 2, Wagner 2, Purdy, Small, Schofield, Jeffrey, Scriver 4.
Baron Byng High: Katz 4, Waxman 3, Dikofsky 2, Rubin 2, Zinman, Flammenbaum, Kobernick, Watkin 2, Tannenbaum.
Half time score: Baron Byng 9 — McGill 6.

CLASS BASKETBALL
